Saying of the Day is a light and simple software application that allows you to check out current quotations of the day on your desktop. Manage your own risk One of the major problems with small travel insurance is that, from time to time, the policy lapse. However, with the help of the Travel Protection plans offered by Travel Guard, this threat can be eased significantly. Insurance providers are offering a wide choice of travel protection plans so that you can get the most out of your policy. However, only a few of them are stand-alone and can guarantee protection against unexpected risks such as flight cancellations, flight delays and hotel or car thefts. The rest of the policies are tied to certain airlines, hotels or rental cars. If you think you are concerned about losing a substantial amount of money in the event of a travel accident, you should opt for these stand-alone plans and check what your travel insurance provider offers. To find out more, make sure to consult our insurance comparison page. However, if you want to benefit from the highest levels of security without sacrificing your budget, it is recommended to opt for bundled insurance. For example, Travel Guard offers the Travel Guard Assistance Plan that offers a lot of security by means of bundled security packages with different insurance providers. Furthermore, these packages are cost-effective and easy to understand, as they combine coverage with the best value for money. Travel Protection & Insurance Staying safe on the road Travel Protection is bundled with many travel insurance plans. Nevertheless, the protection you should consider is not always the same as the one offered by your travel insurance provider. More and more often, travel insurance policy holders face the unpleasant fact that their policies do not cover the unexpected risks they are exposed to. According to an analysis conducted by the international credit rating agency Standard & Poor's, consumers are at risk of a financial loss due to flight cancellations, airline travel disputes and overbooked flights every year. In other words, the effects of these events can be devastating for ordinary travelers, who have neither sufficient time nor sufficient assets to recover from them. The analysis carried out by S&P's also revealed that in 2013 alone, more than 42,000 consumers asked for compensation for flight delays. Insurance providers are aware of all these facts and so, they are willing to pay great attention to securing these bundles and ensure that they cover the full range of risks faced by their clients in the event of a travel accident. However,
