Astronomy Picture of the Day Discover the cosmos! Each day a different image or photograph of our fascinating universe is featured, along with a brief explanation written by a professional astronomer. 2015 September 11 Pulsar Storms Image Credit & Copyright: Ricardo Calvete (CNRS Paris) Explanation: Bright auroras grace skies across planet Earth's northern regions this week, when the Sun is rapidly losing its 10 day old-hurricane-like central region. You can see up close the impact of the planet's crushing solar wind and magnetized particles on the auroras, captured by a composite of images taken by the Gamma ray burst Optical/Near-Infrared Detector (GROND) on the 2.2-meter (5.4-meter) diameter infrared telescope at the La Silla Observatory. The two persistent pulsar storms illuminate the northern sky, as objects in the clockwise fast motion of the central ring of the Earth's magnetic field stream past.
