Chanakya Neeti or Acharya Chanakya's teachings provide a path to live an orderly and planned life. These practical powerful strategies provide a path to live an orderly and planned life. If these strategies are followed in any sphere of life, victory is certain. Chanakya also developed Neeti-Sutras (aphorisms pithy sentences) that tell people how they should behave. Chanakya used these sutras to groom Chandragupta in the art of ruling a kingdom. Oneness and harmony are the utmost goal of Chanakya. They serve as Chanakya`s magical ways to achieve this goal. Oneness is a concept of unity. It is a state of mental or physical existence. But oneness is not a manifestation of identity. That is, it cannot be considered as an identical existence. This idea, oneness, is accepted by many spiritual traditions. Chanakya lived in 4th century B.C. during a period when so-called Siddhanta (tradition) was the way of life in India. Oneness comes about a relationship between all living things of this universe. It is the state in which we all are because we all exist. It is an objective component of reality. Second, Chanakya believed that all living things should be one with each other and one with the sun, moon, and stars. The essence of all life forms consists of one substance; that is, one element. And when this one substance combines with another it creates a unity. He said, each living creature moves, thinks, and eats because it is connected with the sun. To
